

Feeling hopeless about global warming?

Tucson's 350 Extravaganza

Join us October 24th—International Day of Climate Action!

Chinese Cultural Center, 1288 West River Road

10 am to 11:45 am

Sponsored by a coalition of caring citizens and NGO's

350.org

Connect with others in our community and thousands of communities across the planet who are building a movement to lift public awareness about Global Warming. Let's show the world what Tucson is doing to make policymakers aware of the scientific evidence that says the atmospheric concentration of carbon dioxide must be lowered to 350 ppm if we are going to avoid a catastrophic ecological tipping point.

At this event, you will have an opportunity to:

- be part of a "human sculpture" in the form of a giant "350"— photo will be sent to 350.org and become part of a collection of similar images from around the world that will be delivered to the media and world leaders;
- participate in a "Green TEA Party", gathering 350 or more petitions to influence local officials to endorse a viable foundation for sustainable development (TEA = Tucson Ecological Action);
- hear short comments by local dignitaries;
- talk to representatives of various local non-profit organizations about products and services that reduce greenhouse gas emissions;

The schedule of events will proceed as follows (all times are A. M.):

- 10:00 Attendees arrive; begin to sign Green TEA Party petitions; attendees are assigned to be part of the three, five or zero of the human sculpture, talk to non-profits.
- 10:45 to 11:15: Human sculpture formed; pictures taken.
- 11:15 to 11:45: Presentations.
- 11:45 to noon: Mingle, disburse and depart.

Attendees are urged to arrive at the Center by bus, bicycle or in car pools. The Chinese Cultural Center is on SunTran Bus Route 10. To get the clearest representation of the "350" in the human sculpture, it will be helpful for participants to wear light-colored (white or yellow) head gear, especially iconic cowboy hats or sombreros.

Join with friends and neighbors to show Tucson's support of successful Climate Change talks in Copenhagen in December and give support for climate action at the local level by signing petitions that will be presented to City, County, and State officials.
